PRESIDENT TO HAVE NONLIQUID FOODS TODAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, starting his second week of convalescence, got a doctors' go-ahead today to take his first nonliquid food by mouth since undergoing major surgery.

An 8 a.m. bulletin from the Army's Walter Reed Hospital said the President would receive "soft foods later in the day."

Up to now he has received nothing but liquids since his operation one week ago today for relief of a partial obstruction of the small intestine.

During the first days after surgery Eisenhower was fed intravenously. Starting Thursday evening he began to take warm liquids by mouth.

Good Nights Rest
Today's medical bulletin said: "The President had a very good night's rest. He slept almost continuously for more than eight hours."

"Feeding of liquids by mouth is being continued and will be augmented by soft foods later in the day."

"His temperature is 98.2, his pulse is 78, his blood pressure is 118 over 70, his respiration is 18, all of which are normal."

"The President is in excellent spirits."

James C. Hagerty, press secretary, said the soft foods include such things as "custard, gelatine and cream of wheat."

Asks About Press
In issuing the 8 a.m. bulletin, Hagerty said he had visited briefly with the President this morning. He said Eisenhower had asked about activity in the news room three floors below his presidential suite at the hospital.

Hagerty said the President asked him to send his best wishes to the newsmen who have been reporting his illness.

He also reported that the President was shaved this morning by Steve Martini, the barber who attends him regularly at the White House.

Eisenhower started this Father's Day weekend free of business and official visitors.

Lightning Halts Fire Siren During Alarm
Gettysburg firemen, responding to the lightning fire at the Henry U. Wagner farm, Table Rock, this morning, had their own troubles with lightning.

An electrical bolt struck the fire house or near it, just as the first contingent of firemen was leaving the building, stopping the siren on top of the fire house in mid-way.

With no siren to give an alarm and the storm continuing, some firemen stayed at the engine house for about an hour, until the siren switch box could be by-passed, permitting use of the alarm, in case another alarm occurred during that period.

The bolt also "froze" the door at the engine house and firemen were still working late this morning to close the door which had been opened when the first engine left the fire house.

Youngsters under 12 interested in such a basketball league were particularly asked to report Monday to determine the interest in such an activity.

Hilger, noting the presence of picnic tables and fireplaces at shady spot on the Recreation field, specially invited family groups to picnic there, and added that a family picnic and field day will probably be held for everybody on the closing day of the field in August.

Vice President Nixon and Secretary of State Dulles have appointments for Monday, and there was expectation that as Eisenhower's recovery continues, other Cabinet members may visit the hospital later in the week.

STRIKES AND LAYOFFS HURT AUTO INDUSTRY

DETROIT (AP)—Strikes and layoffs during the past week have done little to improve the summer outlook for the auto industry.

Oddly, both have been blamed on overproduction of cars.

For the sixth time in the last seven working days, Detroit area operations of Chrysler Corp. were crippled yesterday by a wildcat strike of 1,100 trim department workers.

The walkout halted production at eight Chrysler plants and idled 13,500 workers. Across the Detroit River, in Windsor, Ont., unauthorized walkouts idled 3,300 Canadian Chrysler workers for the second time in two days.

The United Auto Workers Union, which admits the strikes are unauthorized, said Chrysler is "forcing" walkouts to reduce production because of large inventories of unsold 1956 models.

More than 207,000 jobless workers were reported in Michigan as of May 15, more than half of them in the Detroit area. The UAW claims thousands more have been added to the unemployment list since then and the increase will continue at least through the summer.

Winter State Park Will Be Improved

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Forests and Waters Department plans an "extensive" improvement program for a Union County state park due to be renamed in honor of Raymond B. Winter.

W. P. Moll, head of the department's recreation division, said that improvements to beach facilities and the road network in the area now known as the Half-Way State Forest Park will be made shortly after Labor Day.

"We are forced to expand the facilities because of the crowds the park is attracting," Moll commented. He said the park was built for a capacity crowd of 3,000 a day and "now we have 5,000 to 8,000 there sometimes."

The 1955 Legislature adopted a resolution calling for renaming of the park in honor of Winter, of Millfield, who retired last year after 45 years as state forester in the Bald Eagle district where the park is located.

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—A U.S. Embassy official said today Jordan authorities had refused to let Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania visit the Jordan-administered section of Jerusalem.

The official said the embassy was not in direct contact with the Jordan government, but acted as an intermediary by directing Leader's application to the U.S. Embassy in Amman.

He said the embassy here was informed subsequently that the application for a visa was turned down.

It was understood Leader had planned to spend a few hours visiting the old city area of Jerusalem and its holy places. He had planned the visit following a one-day stay in Israel.

Commission New Missile Carriers

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The U.S.S. Canberra, the Navy's second guided missile cruiser, was commissioned yesterday in ceremonies attended by Australian Ambassador Sir Percy Spender.

Spender, noting the Canberra is the "only vessel in the U.S. Navy which bears, so to speak, a foreign name," said his country looks at it as "a truly tangible expression of the closeness of our national associations both in war and peace."

The Canberra is the sister ship of the U.S.S. Boston, commissioned here last year.

The ship was originally launched in 1943 as the U.S.S. Pittsburgh. It was brought here to be equipped for its new task and renamed.

Today's Talk

PUBLIC LIBRARIES

I feel safer and better in a town that has a fine public library. I look upon it as the best investment a town or city can make. I am about to witness the dedication of a library at Ottawa University, Kansas, where I graduated—well, a long time ago! I get an extra thrill, for this library is going to be extra fine. When I was in school at Ottawa it was the public library that housed me during all my extra hours at night. I owe more to that library than I can express. I believe I was its best customer!

I like to see young people in a library—hungry minds at work. Nothing in a community is so important. The few pennies spent for the loan of books is like putting them in a bank. Books never fail to pay dividends in new knowledge and intellectual discoveries. There is a stimulating atmosphere to the reading room of a library, and I like to see those loaned books leave their home place to be read and later returned for others to enjoy and from which to gain mental health.

People who read books, and learn to love them, are sure to be good citizens and good people. We like to talk with people who are well informed. In turn they stimulate us and make us want to know more. Every town and college should have a good library, no matter how small, for it is to the young mind that is so plastic that lasting good is the result. I often refer to that book by Paul Jordan Smith, who is the literary critic for the Los Angeles Times. It is called "For the Love of Books." Unfortunately it has long been out of print, but I hope it is in many a public library for it has led me to the love of many another book.

I am thrilled to learn that so many public spirited businesses are donating large sums to colleges and cities to be devoted to libraries. An intelligent community is one that should be a very happy one in which to live and learn.

Just Folks

THE HAPPY GARDENER

He stopped me on the street. Thought I.

He's going to tell a tale of woe. I'd rather men would pass me by Than talk about the debts they owe.

I knew he'd had his days of care. As other men; I fancied he intended to delay me there To tell a sorry tale to me.

And then he grinned and this said he: "I know that you are fond of flowers, I wish you'd drop around to see That little tulip bed of our."

"I bought some new ones in the fall. They're just come into blossoming. And there's a bronze one, straight and tall. That really is a handsome thing!"

I promised that I'd drop around. Rejoicing, in these days of doubt, That some one in the town I'd found Who had a joy to talk about.

Couple Is Married Under Police Guard

DAYTON Ohio (AP)—A Dayton area couple, whose marriage plans were tragically interrupted on their wedding day when the prospective bridegroom was severely injured by a bomb, have been secretly married under heavy police guard.

The bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Pfarrer of suburban Kettering revealed Thursday their daughter Sara Louise, 21, and Andrew Donald Dixon, 27, of nearby Englewood, were married last Saturday in St. Albert the Great Church here, as a police detail guarded the entrances.

Dixon was wounded when the bomb wrapped as a wedding gift and left by an unknown assailant exploded in the living room of his home last April 28.

TELLS HOW TO SNAP MONOPOLY IN TELEVISION

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert Kintner, president of American Broadcasting Co., told Congress Friday the way to break up any "monopoly" in television is to grant more station licenses.

Testifying before the Senate Commerce Committee, Kintner said the only monopoly in the business has been created by the government through its failure to let enough stations compete.

"If the scarcity problem is solved—and it can be solved, the problems that confront us now will be fully and effectively met without the need of additional governmental intervention or regulation," he said.

Propose Regulation
Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) contends that ABC's bigger competitors, National Broadcasting Co., and Columbia Broadcasting System, have established an "economic stranglehold" on the industry. He has proposed government regulation of networks.

But Kintner said that ABC, despite its smaller size, can compete effectively with NBC and CBS without such regulation if the government will license more TV outlets.

He said if the Federal Communications Commission and the committee direct their attention to "the scarcity of stations" the "alleged monopolistic practices in the industry will disappear."

Gives Some Reasons
Kintner said that despite recent successes by ABC, his network would be the first to admit "that we are still not able to compete with NBC and CBS on equal terms."

The reason, he said, is this: "There are too many important markets (population centers) in which there are only one or two competitive stations."

"NBC and CBS, the older networks, have obtained the basic affiliations in these scarcity markets with the result that our programs are either shut out entirely or carried at times when many people are not available."

Urges Education To Aid Handicapped

HOMER CITY, Pa. (AP)—A program of education to help the physically handicapped secure jobs in Pennsylvania is urged by the state secretary of labor and industry.

John R. Torquato on Thursday told a meeting of the American Federation of the Physically Handicapped, Lodge 149, that the state and local committees must work to "break down the prejudices that stand in the way of job placement for the handicapped."

He is chairman of the governor's Committee for Employment of the Handicapped.

He said the Labor Department plans a new rehabilitation center near Johnstown which will be ready for operation in 1957.

NEED PATIENCE, ADENAUER SAYS

CHICAGO (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, said Friday "timely rearmament" has avoided a hot war with Russia and "the cold war will end in our favor if we are wise and patient."

The 80-year-old Chancellor stressed patience as a key to dealing with the Communist threat of world domination.

In a prepared address to the Executive Club of Chicago, Adenauer said the Russians "have an attitude toward time and the passing of time which differs from that of the United States and of the free peoples, especially the Europeans."

"To the Russian, time is not a very important concept. The free nations lose patience too easily; they want to see success too quickly. He who can wait has an advantage in a political controversy."

FEAR TROUBLE IN BOLIVIAN VOTE SUNDAY

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—President Victor Paz Estenssoro's leftist National Revolutionary Movement to work was assured a nearly clean sweep in weekend elections following withdrawal by the opposition Socialist Falange of all its candidates.

The action eliminated Vice President Siles Zuazo's only major opponent in the presidential race and reversed predictions of quiet polling Sunday. Most political sources figured the withdrawal increased the chance of trouble.

The government already had made an impressive show of force to discourage any attempts at revolution, moving about 3,000 extra militiamen into La Paz. Said one high official, "this in itself should dissuade those who are thinking in terms of violence."

Charge "Repression"

It appeared certain, however, that the government would move more armed troops into La Paz. Bolivian revolutions traditionally are won or lost in the capital.

Oscar Zunaga de la Vega, Falangist candidate for president, announced his forces were quitting the race Thursday night after a two-hour party meeting. Minutes earlier he had said he would not withdraw.

The withdrawal statement signed by Zunaga and vice presidential candidate Mario Gutierrez charged repressive police action by the government. It also accused the government and the MNR of sabotaging the Falange.

SEEK COAL FUND FOR RESEARCH

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Coal Assn. has been given a plan under which the bituminous industry would tax itself a nickel per ton to set up a multimillion dollar research fund.

Joseph P. Davidson told the association's annual convention Thursday coal is spending 17 million dollars a year for research—mostly for mechanical development.

Davidson, who is president of the Union Carbide and Carbon Co., said, on the other hand his own firm spends 40 to 50 million dollars a year in chemical research while the entire chemical industry spends 360 million a year.

"There isn't enough being done by the coal industry," he said, "to solve some of its problems through research."

The association elected L. Newton Thomas, Charleston, W.Va., as president for the coming year.

BAN PICTURES OF PRINCESS

ROME (AP)—Italian police Friday threatened to confiscate photographers' cameras if they try to take pictures of Crown Princess Beatrix of the Netherlands on the streets of Rome.

Dutch officials announced the 18-year-old princess was here on "a strictly private vacation, the vacation of a school girl who has just passed final exams." They said the visit had "absolutely no connection" with published reports about a faith healer and Queen Juliana, the princess' mother.

Dutch newspapers have denied speculation that the reported influence of the faith healer over the Queen might force her abdication in favor of Beatrix. Government officials in The Hague Thursday night denied rumors that the Queen and her husband, Prince Bernhard, are thinking about a divorce after disagreeing over the healer.

The German weekly magazine Der Spiegel first published the story saying Queen Juliana had come under the influence of Miss Greet Hofmans, 61-year-old faith healer, after Bernhard brought her in 1948 to treat their partly blind youngest daughter, Princess Maria Cristina.

Princess Beatrix arrived here three days ago.

BROOKLYN IS BEGINNING ITS UPWARD MARCH

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

The fun may be about over in the National League pennant race. The World Champion Brooklyn Dodgers finally are making their move, using first division teams as stepping stones to hike into second place by winning nine of their last 11 games.

The Brooks, in fifth place and four games back when the revival started, made it five straight with a comeback 5-4 decision over Milwaukee's bumbling Braves last night.

Brooklyn had lost four straight and had a 19-19 record when it got into gear with a victory in the series final at Chicago June 3. Then the Dodgers went to Milwaukee and took three of four from the Braves, who opened the set in first place. Next it was two of three from Cincinnati, the leader at that point. Then a two-game sweep from St. Louis, in a virtual tie for the lead at the time.

Pirates Stay On Top
All of that success was on the road, and in their first game back at chummy Ebbets Field, the Brooks took over the No. 2 spot vacated by Cincinnati in a 4-3 11-inning loss to the New York Giants.

Pittsburgh's Pirates retained the lead—by one game and 21 percentage points—with a 12-1 victory against the Cardinals. Philadelphia and Chicago split a twilight pair, the Phils winning 6-5 in 10 innings, then losing 8-5.

In the less hectic American League race, the New York Yankees kept their five-game bulge as Johnny Kucks three-hit Cleveland and Mickey Mantle potted his 23rd home run for a 6-2 victory. Second place Chicago thumped Washington 7-2. Detroit tied Boston for fourth with a 5-2 decision over the Red Sox. And Baltimore defeated Kansas City 1-0.

Biggest Crowd
The largest Ebbets Field crowd of the season—26,784—welcomed the Brooks home. Carl Furillo batted in three runs with four straight hits, including his sixth homer, and Al (Rube) Walker lined a bases-loaded single in the ninth to win it.

The Braves, now in fifth, have dropped 11 of their last 16 games—no help to Manager Charlie Grimm, reported on the way out after losing the confidence of owner Lou Perini.

Bendersville's eight-game winning streak in the South Penn' Baseball League was snapped by Littletown 4-3 Friday evening under the lights at Memorial Stadium, Littletown. It was the first reverse for the league-leaders.

A three-run rally in the last of the sixth inning turned the trick for Littletown. Pitzer and Barnes hooked up in a nice pitching duel all the way. Kluck collected four singles to lead the Bendersville attack while Hankey led Littletown with a single and double.

In a twilight game to make up a postponed contest, Hunterstown edged invading Greenmount 7-6 via a two-run rally in the seventh inning. Greenmount scored twice in the top of the seventh to take a 6-5 lead after which Hunterstown put on its winning rally. Many errors marked the game.

Bill Heyser, who relieved Jim Hankey in the first inning, was the winning pitcher. John Fissel hurled the distance for the losers.

Golfers Qualify
For VFW Tourney

INDIANA, Pa. — About 33 golfers, seeking "berths" in the final round of the 2nd annual Pennsylvania Veterans of Foreign Wars Golf Tournament, sought today to better a score of 77 in the second qualifying round.

Poster Hill and Bill Lundstrom, both of Indiana, shot 77s Thursday to head the list of 17 players in the first qualifying round at the nine-hole par 36 Indiana VFW Country Club.

In second place with 81s were Rudy Dolny, defending champion, Natrona Heights, and Bob Palmer, New Castle.

Dave Jones of Indiana, who had an 83, shot a hole-in-one on the 170-yard second hole. He used a four iron to record his ace.

Four players tied with 84s. They are Max Dick, Homer City; Joe Dolny, Natrona Heights; John Yaguste, Etna; and George Dawson, Etna.

Match play starts today with the finals being played on Sunday. About $800 in prizes and trophies will be awarded.

NINE COLTS TO RUN IN BELMONT

NEW YORK — Needles and Fabius led the post parade to the 88th Belmont Stakes today, and the puzzling uncertainties of racing promise to make this one of the most interesting 3-year-old duels in the long history of the great classic.

The chips are down in this $100,000-added tussle, a tough once around trip over the huge mile and one half Belmont Park oval, where champions have been crowned since 1905. Prior to that time, the race was held at Jerome Park, 1867-1889, and Morris Park, 1890-1904.

Nine colts were entered for the final jewel in the famed triple crown series, and horsemen could find something good to say about the chances of at least five of the contenders.

In addition to Needles and Fabius, the talk around Belmont leans mostly toward the chances of Career Boy and Jazz Age, C. V. Whitney's entry, and Ricci Tavi, from the Christiana stable of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Langer.

The Maine Chance Farm's Gun Shot, Mrs. C. B. Fischbach's Frosty Mr. Fortune, P. Ryan's Charlevoix, and Mrs. Laudy Lawrence's Beau Diable appear in over their heads.

HAMIA EARNS TITLE SHOT BY WIN ON FRIDAY

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK — Cherif Hamia of Algeria has qualified for a featherweight title shot at champion Sandy Saddler in the early fall if terms can be arranged.

The curly-haired battler convinced a crowd of 2,000 Madison Square Garden fans and a national television audience of his ability last night while winning a unanimous decision over Miguel Berrios.

Although Hamia was hurt in the first, fifth and sixth rounds, he took charge of the fight down the stretch after dropping the stocky Puerto Rican for the first time in his career in the fourth round.

"Most Attractive"

"Please, please, Mr. Markson, bring me back for the title," said Hamia's French manager, Philippe Philippi, to be managing director of the International Boxing Club. Hamia sailed for home today on the French Lines' Liberté.

Markson said he found a Hamia-Saddler match "most attractive" and hoped to stage it in the Garden in early fall.

Hamia, 125½ to Berrios' 125 pounds, won the cards of all three officials. Referee Al Beri had it 6-3-1, Judge Artie Alda 6-4 and Judge Leo Birnbaum 7-3. The AP card was 6-4 for Hamia.

In Central Pa. Play

Sidney Steinhorn, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Steinhorn, Baltimore St., who was 1955 men's singles champion at the Gettysburg Recreation Park, was eliminated Friday from competition in the Central Penn Junior Tennis tournament at the Harrisburg Country Club after winning his initial match on Thursday. Semifinals were scheduled today and championship matches will be played Sunday.

Steinhorn beat Dee Davis of Harrisburg in straight sets on Thursday and lost Friday morning to Mike Honker of near Hershey. Honker also was a member of the winning team in a doubles match Friday. Bill Poist of Hanover was another Friday winner.

Eastern League

A good hit but no run. That's what Binghamton coach Freddie Fitzsimmons might have to say about his bonus first baseman, Frank Leja.

Leja hit a timely double that drove in a run last night but his base running ended the rally and the Triplets lost the Eastern League game to the Schenectady Blue Jays, 4-1.

Leja forgot there was only one out and ran under a full head of steam on a simple pop fly. He was doubled easily at second to end the home half of the fourth inning.

Schenectady pulled up to eight percentage points behind Binghamton in second place, two games to the rear of the leading Allentown Redbirds, who lost an 8-5 decision to Williamsport at Allentown.

In other games, Johnstown won 4-3 at Reading and host Syracuse edged Albany 2-1, in a game curtailed by rain after six innings.

County Agent Zettle Advises Farmers To Check Herd Sires; Tells How To Fight Rodents

By FRANK S. ZETTEL
Adams County Farm Agent

Late spring is the season when many Pennsylvania beef breeders are turning their herd sires in with the brood cow herd, hoping for a good calf crop next spring. Failure to get a calf crop because of a non-breeding bull can be downright disastrous to the beef breeder.

A uniform crop of calves that are dropped within a period of 6 to 8 weeks means that the brood cows must be bred within a short period of time. This means the bull must be in good breeding condition, and not sluggish or lame.

Most successful beef breeders give consideration to the following factors at breeding time:

1. Use the best bull you can afford. If not satisfied with the calf crop by the present bull, it will pay to get another.

2. See that the bull is in good breeding condition. Usually more bulls are troubled with being too fat at the start of the breeding season. This is especially true of aged bulls that are "easy keepers."

3. See that his feet are in good condition. Most bulls' feet need trimming occasionally, especially those that are wintered in small dens on soft bedding.

4. Don't expect him to breed too many cows. Most mature bulls will not settle more than 25 cows in a breeding season of 6 to 8 weeks. To turn him in with a herd of 35 or 40 cows may mean a long, drawn-out calving season or some cows not being bred. A yearling, and many aged bulls, cannot be expected to breed as many as 25 cows.

5. Check to see that the cows are settling. Get breeding dates on a few individual cows, and then check them carefully about 18 to 22 days later to see that they are not coming back in heat. A sterile bull that goes unnoticed may mean no calf crop or at least a late one.

Protect Grain From Rodent Damage

Late spring is the time to begin planning to protect new grain in storage. As the old crop of corn or small grain is used or cleaned out of the bins or cribs, also make necessary repairs to prevent future rodent entrance.

Wire hardware cloth, quarter-inch mesh, is very useful for lining feed room and other places where rats or mice are gaining entrance. Correlate this rodent-proofing with a general clean up in the neighborhood.

Remove all shelters or harboring places. Do not let a stone, junk, or woodpile be a rat's den.

After the corn crib or granary is rodent-proofed, equip the door with a self-closing device. Follow a year-round rat control program, for rats never take vacations.

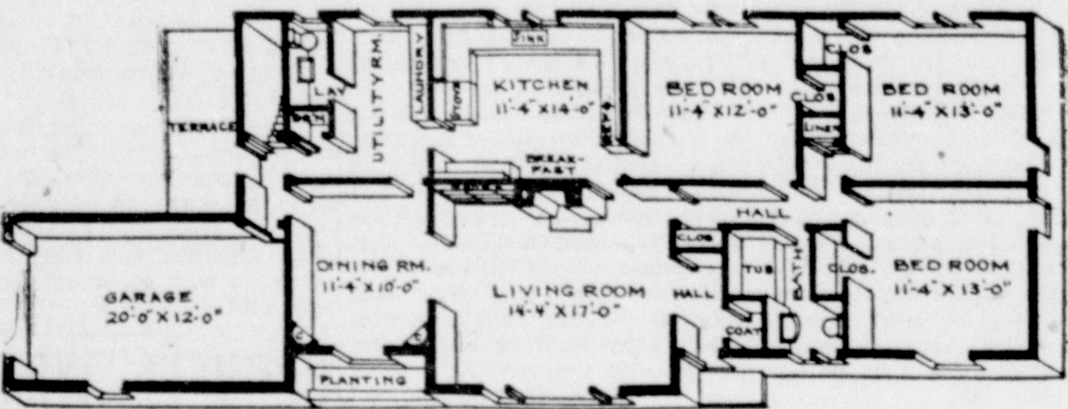

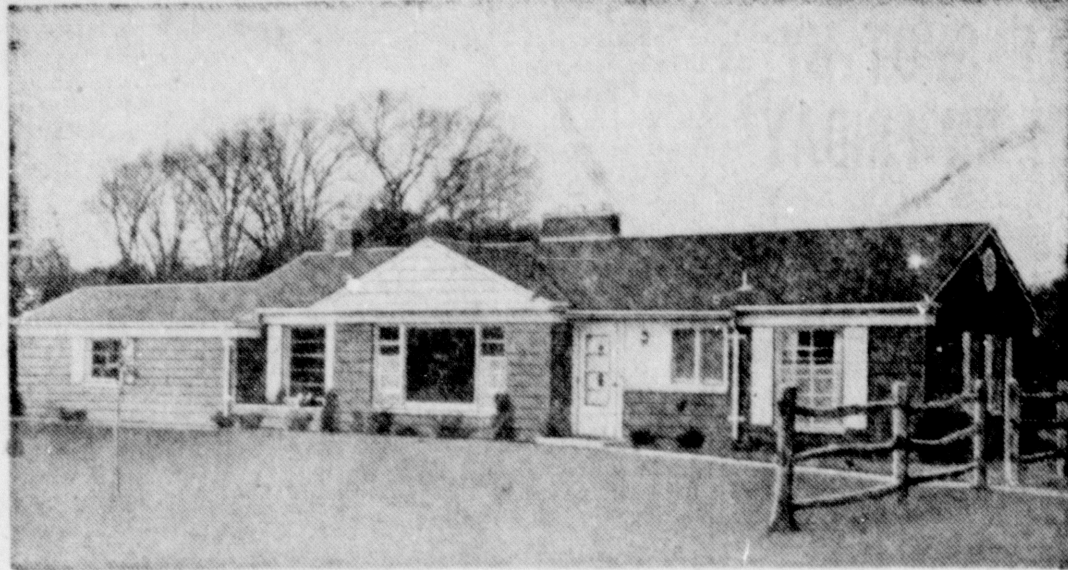

The gladiolus thrip is a serious pest of gladiolus, for it will feed on corns in storage and also attack the growing plant throughout the growing season. Both adults and nymphs feed on the foliage and flower buds by destroying the surface cells. The injury is easily recognized by a "silencing" of the leaves and flower buds. On the flower, the injury is apparent as discolored or bleached spots and injured buds may fall to open.

Insecticide applications should be started when the new growth is about 6 inches high, and repeat at 10 to 14 day intervals until flower spikes are ready to bloom. Use either 2 tablespoons of wettable powder of chlordane, or DDT 50 per cent, or malathion 25 per cent, or 1 tablespoon of dieldrin 50 per cent. Dusts of any of the materials mentioned may be used in place of spray.

Coal Hod Makes Good Tree Stand

Some modern homemakers are bringing the outdoors into their living rooms with transplanted rhododendron trees set in galvanized steel coal hods. The attractive rhododendron is sold at most florist shops and nurseries, and has rose, pink or purple blossoms. The trees usually are sold in expensive copper pails, but nearly half the price may be saved by putting the rhododendron in a shiny new galvanized steel coal hod. The coal hod is leak-proof, easy to clean and makes an attractive and unusual shape to set off a rustic decor. Of course, the hod may be painted to match or complement the color scheme of the room. To make the paint adhere more easily, rinse the galvanized steel with a vinegar and water solution.

In 1953 Wisconsin produced 11 1/4 million cases of evaporated milk.

Roominess Is "Highlight" Of "Goodlake"

A charmingly modern one-story house, "The Goodlake," today's offering from the Home of the Week Plan Service, contains three good-sized bedrooms and will prove especially popular with those families who want plenty of sleeping space.

Measuring 76 feet by 24 feet 6 inches, the house has a cubage of 40,000 feet. Thus, to build this house and attached garage you'll need approximately a 100-foot lot. And, regardless of the site you select for this house—where you decide to place it on the land—if you choose this plan you're certain to have an attractive home that will be "in style" for years to come.

Exterior Finish
Any type of exterior finish will be appropriate for a home of this style. Simple, uncomplicated landscaping will blend with and at the same time emphasize the simple, uncluttered architecture of this modified ranch house.

The well planned interior contains six rooms plus a utility room where you can have your home laundry equipment installed. First floor laundries are proving more and more popular with modern homemakers who find it easier to hang out and take in clothes when the base of operations is located on the ground floor.

All three bedrooms in this house feature good lighting and ventilation. Each room also has ample storage facilities. The regular bath is located conveniently near the bedrooms; it is large enough to accommodate a shower as well as a tub.

Extra Lavatory
For added convenience, a lavatory opens off the utility room. This lavatory will not only prove its worth during that inevitable morning rush but also will be especially convenient for the lady of the house when she's busy with her daily tasks and for the youngsters.

and their pals who make so many jaunts in and out through the back door.

This house plan—unlike many available today—includes both a dining room and living. Each of these rooms is well-lighted, pleasant and of good size. A fireplace and built-in bookshelves are suggested for the living room.

Compact and neat, the all-modern kitchen will win the approval of any housewife. The breakfast nook included in the kitchen layout is an ideal spot in which to serve those between meal snacks.

Blueprints Available

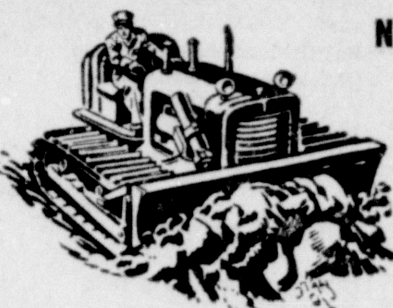

Complete plans for this home are available: One set—$12.75; two sets—$19.35; three sets—$25.80. Address requests (mentioning name of home) to Home of the Week, Inc., Dept. 87 Weybosset St., Providence, R. I. Send check or money order or plans will be sent C.O.D. A complete home owner's kit and contractor's kit will be included at no extra cost.

Safely Kept Fuel Prevents Fires

With the increasing number of families enjoying the benefits of power mowers and boating in front of their own outboard motors, there is increasing danger from carelessly kept fuel.

Explosions and dangerous fires caused by gasoline and kerosene fumes can be avoided by careful use of the fuel. Whenever filling the fuel tanks of outboard or power mower motors, be sure no one is smoking nearby. Never attempt to refill the fuel tank while the motor is running. To safely store the fuel, put it in a leak-proof galvanized steel fuel can, and place it in a garage or tool shed, away from the house or summer cottage. Galvanized steel fuel cans are equipped with snug fitting caps on the pouring spouts to safely confine dangerous fumes.

So many toppings to choose from when you are making Pizzas! Choose from these: mushrooms, anchovies, salami, cooked pork sausage.

Gardening Code Makes Better Gardens Easy

Everyone enjoys having a beautiful garden and yard, but most people think it requires a "green thumb." It doesn't! The garden enthusiast may have a garden and yard to be proud of simply by following a few simple rules and using good, common sense.

One of the real secrets of successful gardening is having the necessary equipment and keeping it all in one location, saving time otherwise spent in looking for a truant hoe or sprinkling can. The garden equipment center may be located in the garage, basement or tool shed.

Every garden and lawn equipment center should contain at least these tools: rake, hoe, spading fork, shears, trowel, cultivator, lawn edger, pruning saw, galvanized steel pail and sprinkling can, stakes, wheelbarrow and galvanized steel basket or laundry tub. Other items to be kept in the garden center other than tools include canvas gloves, fertilizers, lawn and plant foods, mulch or compost, weed killers and potting soil.

Store In Bins

Large quantities of fertilizer and potting soil may be kept in galvanized steel garbage cans, either upright or lying on their sides as bins. These containers will help keep the garden center neater and simplify storage of bulky materials.

When planting, consider each individual plant's sunlight and shade preferences, and its space requirements. Always firm the soil around a plant with hands or feet to be sure no air spaces are left to cause roots to dry out.

Cut only one or two inches into the ground when cultivating or hoeing to prevent injuring surface roots and exposing soil to drying winds. Use mulch whenever possible. An inch or so of mulch consisting of peat moss or rotted leaves eliminates most cultivating, controls weeds and retains moisture.

Apply weed killers diligently. Many good commercial weed killers are available at hardware and garden supply stores and most can be applied easily from a galvanized steel sprinkling can.

and gardens helps control weeds and makes grass easier to cut with less edge trimming.

Prevent Burning

Save time and prevent plants from being burned by excess fertilizer by applying a commercial or natural fertilizer while watering.

Watering is probably the most important single phase of gardening. All flowers, vegetables, shrubs, trees and grass should be carefully watered as often as necessary. Sprinklers will serve for the lawn and some shrubs, but delicate flowers should be given individual, gentle care with a galvanized steel sprinkling can. Lawn and garden experts say early morning is the best time for watering, to keep plants moist through the hot day.

The roots of shrubs, trees and perennials should be thoroughly soaked at least twice a month.

Insect Protection, Water Aid Gardens

The chief requisites for healthy flowers and vegetables through the summer and fall, garden specialists say, are sufficient water and protection against destructive insects.

A galvanized steel sprinkling can helps fill both of these requirements in the average home garden. The sprinkling can may be used for watering and for spraying insecticides.

A galvanized steel sprinkler is especially suitable for watering delicate plants. The wide, finely perforated nozzle discharges a soft

Larger Homes Are In Demand

A spot survey by the National Assn. of Home Builders shows an increasing demand for larger houses.

"This is teamed with mounting price tags on land, labor, material and mortgage money," says the association. "An increase of 11 per cent in the cost of homes for sale has resulted."

Participating builders reported a 1956 median of $14,508, a sharp upturn from their 1955 median of $13,050.

"There will be a decline of about 30 per cent in the number of homes priced under $10,000, as compared with 1955," says the association, "an even greater decline, 40 per cent, in the $10,000 to $12,500 category, but very substantial gains in the higher price groups."

spray which cannot harm fragile plants.

Insecticide solutions, available at most hardware dealers and garden supply shops, can be mixed in the sprinklers from which they are to be sprayed. However, since most insecticides are poisonous, the sprinkling cans must be washed thoroughly before using them to water leafy vegetables and fruits which are to be eaten.

BUILDING AND FARM

2 Gardners Brothers, Bill And Bud Grove, Are Keen Competitors In FFA And 4-H Club Work

Ask 11-year-old William Kenneth "Bill" Grove, Gardners R. 1, and he will grin and tell you there's a certain reason why he likes baby beef raising.

Bill started with a baby beef last year, his first year in club work. It took 11th place at the South Mountain Fair show, fourth place at the Adams County 4-H Baby Beef Roundup and third place in the light heavyweight class at the State Farm Show at Harrisburg.

As an example of what a youngster can do with an animal, and how he can improve it from September to January, the record is remarkable.

Top Older Brother

But that was not what pleased 11-year-old Bill the most.

He liked better the fact that his brother, H. Russell "Bud" Grove Jr., aged 17, also had a baby beef in the club. Bud's animal placed 12th at the South Mountain Fair, ninth at the round up and fifth at Harrisburg. That is enough to make any younger brother crow with joy — particularly when the older brother is one of the outstanding "junior farmers" in the county and was elected Thursday a State FFA regional vice president at Pennsylvania State University.

The two youngsters, sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. Russell Grove, Gardners R. 1, were selected by the county agents as this week's representatives in this series on the activities of 4-H youngsters and again they are perfect examples of children of good farmers also proving outstanding in 4-H and FFA work.

Bill and Bud Grove, sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. Russell Grove, Gardners R. D., are shown with the two heifers they are raising as part of their 4-H dairy calf work. Bill still takes advice from his older brother on the dairy calves, but he is a little more sure of himself in raising baby beeves. Last year, his first in baby beef work, Bill's entry outranked his older brother's in three contests. But Bill still says his older brother "knows a heck of a lot."

FFA work.

Compete Again

The two boys are anxious for this year's contests in the 4-H Baby Beef division — because both have beautiful Colorado born steers and both Bill and Bud are in a brotherly competition as to which has the better animal. They are also competing in the county dairy calf club.

Bill, while starting his second year in 4-H activities, has already learned that sometimes the best of care can result in loss. He had lambs as well as a calf last year. The lambs became ill, and Bill suddenly went out of the lamb business.

Bud had had only one setback in his eight years of 4-H participation.

A member of the county 4-H Dairy Club for eight years, Bud already has developed a small herd of dairy cattle of his own. But he had bad luck with one of the animals which proved sterile. One of his herd is a Sears Foundation heifer secured through his Future Farmers of America work.

Work 2 Counties
A graduate of Bolling Springs High School this month, Bud and his family rapidly move back and forth between Adams and Cumberland Counties. The Grove home is in Adams — the barn in Cumberland.

Bud in fact has divided his agricultural organization work between the two counties. As a Bolling Springs High student he was vice president of the local chapter of the FFA there, he also won the Keystone Farmer degree from the state FFA and the Star Chapter farmer award from his own chapter. He served as president of the Cumberland-Perry Counties FFA chapter as well, and this week at Pennsylvania State University was one of five youths throughout the state elected as regional FFA vice presidents.

At Bolling Springs High he also was presented with an award two weeks ago for having the highest scholarship standing of all students in the vocational agriculture department. The award was given him at graduation. He also won the DeKalb award for highest achievement in corn raising. In Adams County 4-H work he is president of the Adams County 4-H Dairy Calf club, and has previously served that organization as vice president, secretary and game leader.

Other Offices

He was also a vice president of the York Springs Community club to which he and Bill both belong.

Bud's leadership — and Bill also shows the qualities of personality and ability that makes leaders — is also attested by his election last year as vice president of the senior class at Bolling Springs. Both boys follow the parents' example in being active in church work, and the father of the two has also been extremely active in farm organizational activities and is president of the Adams County Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

While Bill has a number of years ahead of him at Bolling Springs High School, Bud at the moment is contemplating his future. With the FFA regional vice president work ahead of him, plus 4-H commitments, he is considering spending this coming year farming and then may go to Pennsylvania State University in 1957 to continue his agricultural education.

As with most parents of 4-H youngsters, Mr. and Mrs. Grove show great interest in the 4-H and FFA work of their children. Mr. Grove notes, "The thing I like about 4-H is that in it the children learn to do by doing. That way they learn best." Mrs. Grove, a practical woman like most mothers, adds, "I also like 4-H work because it gives the children something to do. They're so active that they would have to be doing something, and 4-H makes it something constructive."

Urges Creosote To Avoid Fence Sag

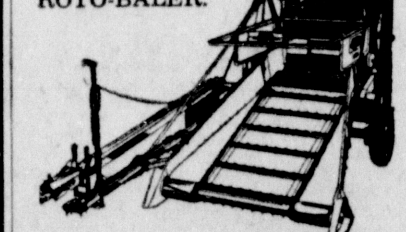

A bright, new picket fence can enhance the appearance of any yard, but an ugly, sagging fence only detracts from a yard's beauty. Lumber dealers suggest that fence posts be protected from eventual rotting and sagging with a coating of creosote applied before the posts are sunk into the ground.

To prevent a mess and considerable waste, put a gallon of the solution into a galvanized steel pail, and

Mends Home's Minor Tears

A good many families this summer are faced with minor household repairs exposed by spring housecleaning or which have been put off during the winter months. One of the major chores around some homes is tuck pointing. Sidelwalks and patios are other cement repairing jobs facing the home handyman.

Winter ice, wind and cold weather are very damaging to cement work around the house, but it's not too difficult to repair most of them with the proper tools.

Ready-Mix Cement

Most hardware stores now stock bags of ready-mix cement, developed with the home handyman in mind. Such cement is easily mixed with water in an ordinary galvanized steel pail, and is applied like regular cement right from the pail.

The only tools needed for most of the cement repair jobs are the proper amount of cement, a trowel, a mixing paddle and a galvanized steel pail.

Clothes Chute Easily Built

Many modern housewives miss the old-fashioned laundry chute, standard equipment in many older homes, and coming back into style in the latest modern homes. In a few hours' work the home handyman can install a practical, step-saving laundry chute in his own home.

In a bungalow or ranch-type house the job simply consists of cutting a hole in the floor of the bathroom, and running a straight length of metal heating duct down to the basement. A trapdoor or grate should be provided for the bathroom floor to prevent an unwary foot from stumbling into the chute. A galvanized steel basket may be placed or hung beneath the lower end of one chute to catch the clothing as it is dropped through. The steel basket may also be used for soaking, rinsing and carry wet clothes to the clothes line when wash day arrives.

In Storied House

In a multi-story house, the chute is only a little more difficult to construct. Run the chute through a closet area to prevent the heating duct-laundry chute from creating an unsightly protrusion into first-floor rooms. Time and labor saved from carrying heavy baskets of soiled clothing to the basement will more than compensate for the work and planning involved in the clothes chute installation.

Fire Pails Save Family, Home

No home should be without some form of fire-fighting equipment. Just one pail of water or sand often can put out a small fire, before it has a chance to grow into a more destructive blaze. In many cases, a large fire can be controlled set a post in the creosote. Use an ordinary paint brush to apply it. Because most fence posts are sunk 30 inches into the ground for stability, the post should be coated with creosote for 30 inches from the lower end. Any surplus which the wood does not absorb from the brush will run back into the pail to be used again.

Quick Curing Of Hay Cuts Loss In Quality

Time and labor saved by baling hay from windrow with field baler.

Harvested forages make up a large part of the winter ration of dairy cattle and other livestock in the United States. More than 90 per cent of the total harvested forage crop is field-cured hay, 3 to 5 percent grass silage, 1 to 2 percent barn-dried hay, and 1 percent dehydrated hay or meal.

The quantity and quality of field-cured hay produced from a given field varies widely, depending on kinds of grasses and legumes in the mixture, stage of maturity when cut, weather conditions during harvest, method of handling the crop, its moisture content when stored, and on other factors.

During field curing, dry-matter losses are about as follows: Leaf shattering, 2 to 5 percent for grass hay; as much as 15 to 20 percent for legume hays field cured under favorable conditions; and leaching by rain, 5 to 14 percent. Nutrient losses are usually higher. Leaching by water can remove as much as 20 to 40 percent of dry matter, 30 percent of phosphorus, 65 percent of potash, 20 percent of crude protein, and 35 percent of nitrogen-free extract.

Reduces Time

Dehydration permits harvesting with a shorter period in the field and a shorter time from cutting to storage than other methods and, therefore, results in smaller losses of leaves, digestible nutrients, green color and carotene. Silage making ranks next in these respects, followed in order by barn drying with heat, barn drying with out heat, field curing during good weather, and field curing during rainy weather.

Forages many times higher in nutritive value than field-cured hay can be produced by having the right grasses and legumes in the mixture, by cutting at an early stage of maturity and processing properly as silage or as dehydrated hay. The carotene content of barn-dried hay will be somewhat higher than that of field-cured hay but usually considerably below that of good grass silage or dehydrated hay.

It is possible and practical to produce forages sufficiently high in carotene that, when liberally fed during the winter, will produce winter butter having a yellow color and vitamin A potency approaching summer butter.

Sliced mushrooms will "fancy up" whole-kernel corn (frozen or canned) when you are having company.

Seek Out Fire Hazards In Summer Homes

Summer cottages often are more dangerous than year-around dwellings, fire officials say, because most cottages are not properly protected against fire.

Most fires in summer homes are caused, like anything else, by carelessness. When filled with the spirit of vacationtime, many people become more careless with a resulting increase in destructive fires.

The lake or mountain cottage should be thoroughly cleaned and inspected for dangerous, fire-breeding conditions.

Rubbish, which is allowed to accumulate in places where a carelessly discarded match or cigarette may reach it, is a fire hazard. Galvanized steel refuse cans may be used to eliminate this hazard. These cans are made of fireproof steel and are equipped with sturdy covers to confine any blaze which may result from spontaneous combustion.

Beware Of Sparks

When burning rubbish, take care that flying sparks don't spoil holiday happiness by landing on a dry roof and starting a costly and dangerous fire. Burn the rubbish in a galvanized steel rubbish burner, equipped with a cover, and designed to permit free air circulation while confining fiery fragments to the interior of the burner.

Portable Steel Tub Sets Cost Less

Many young married couples, unable to buy automatic laundry equipment because of financial obligations on a new home, furniture or car or other costly items, are equipping their laundry or utility rooms with portable galvanized steel laundry tub sets.

These sets consist of one or two large, rust-resistant tubs mounted on movable stands for easy moving when the laundry is done. The tubs have convenient drain outlets, so they need not be lifted.

Safety officials also recommend that electrical wiring be carefully examined for short circuits which can result in fire. Whenever possible, they say, avoid the use of candles and kerosene lamps, and store fuel for power mowers and outboard motors well away from buildings in safe, galvanized steel fuel cans.

Since most summer cottages are not near organized fire departments, the cottage should be equipped with fire fighting apparatus. A fire extinguisher and several galvanized steel fire pails, filled with sand or water, may be placed at strategic spots around the cottage. Frequently, one pail of sand or water is sufficient to put out a small fire or delay a large one until professional firemen arrive.

Powdery mildew is abundant in all Eastern apple areas. If you have been using a powdery mildew fungicide you should maintain a control program through the cover sprays. If you have not yet sprayed for mildew you should start now!

Powdery mildew can still cause trouble by:

KARATHANE is the preferred powdery mildew fungicide for summer use. It is the safest fungicide available for this use and is recommended in your spray schedules. Protein Blamed For Heart Disorders

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A diet high in animal fats is the villain in the mounting rate of heart and blood vessel diseases in the opinion of an Omaha researcher. Carbohydrates — suggested starches — used to get the blame.

Dr. Charles M. Wilhelm of the Creighton University School of Medicine said five years of diet research on dogs indicate that a diet high in animal fats — 50 per cent of the calories in fats — gave the dogs high diastolic blood pressure — the serious kind — and left them with hypertension even after their diet was changed.

And he commented, the normal diet of the well-to-do family today is from 50 to 68 per cent fat. Our diets have been going higher in fat content the last 10 to 15 years and so has our rate of heart and blood vessel diseases, he said.

When he began his study of the effects of diet on hypertensive cardiovascular disease, Dr. Wilhelm said, nearly all suspicion pointed to a high meat diet as the cause of high blood pressure. But he fed dogs lean meat diets and their blood pressure lowered.
